PIONEER WASHER.
E. G. BOLTER,
AGENT FOR OREGON AND WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

THIS CELEBRATED WASHING MACHINE IS now for the first time introduced to the Oregon public. It is unrivalled for its simplicity, durability and the rapidity and ease of its action Washing the dirtiest clothes perfectly clean in from five to ten minutes, with but slight labor, and lasting, with proper care, for ten years. The wear and tear of clothing in washing by this machine is vastly less than by any other known process of washing It does its work by a reverse motion in forcing the water through the clothes

It having a light cover, the steam thus assists materially in cleansing the clothes, and also avoids the inhaling of steam from hot suds.

This Machine captured the Special Premium at the California State Fair, and all that have used it pronounce it an invaluable adjunct to old housekeepers and families and washing men and washing women.

It has been extensively introduced throughout the State of California, and receives the universal commendation of all who have used it

THE COUNTY RIGHTS, now unsold, will be sold at a bargain if applied for soon.

For Reference, enquire at the Mansion House, and of John Wilson,
Southworth's Boarding House, Mrs S F Johnson.

STEAMER
U. S. GRANT,
Will make Two Trips per Week to the CITY OF ASTORIA!
Carrying Passengers at $10, the Round Trip,
(Meals Included.)

The Boat leaves Portland Wednesdays and Saturdays at 7½ A M. Returning leaves Astoria Thursdays and Mondays at 8 o'clock A M.

Every person purchasing a Passenger Ticket will be presented with one of 900 Prize Tickets, to be drawn on the 1ST DAY OF AUGUST, 1867, for the following Prizes

Steamer U S GRANT, to be divided into 4 shares;
ONE BLOCK OF LOTS IN EAST PORTLAND, divided into 5 shares, one lot to the share, viz. Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, Block 17, opposite the "New Columbian" Hotel, and at the terminus of the proposed Suspension Bridge;
ONE GOLD WATCH, worth $100;
160 CORDS DRY FIR WOOD, in 2 shares, to be placed on the Brooklyn Wharf.

The Steamer is 54 tons burthen, 42 horse-power engine, propeller wheel, draft of water 5 feet. She is being thoroughly refitted and refurnished as a Passenger Boat. The Boat will be delivered in perfect order, free from all incumbrance, and Warranty Deeds made for the real estate, to the persons drawing the same. Tickets can be had of C P. PERRY, in Portland, where the money will be left on deposit till the prizes are drawn and delivered.

Any person having a claim against me, and wishing a ticket, can get an order for one by calling on me on board the boat. The person drawing the gold watch can have $100 in gold coin, if preferred.

C. P PERRY, Broker, R J LADD, ex-Sheriff, AL ZEIBER, U. S. Marshal, and C S. SILVER, Merchant, of Portland, are the Committee and Judges to direct the Drawing of Prizes. The Prizes will be drawn before the 1st of August, if all the tickets are taken before that time

☞ The above liberal offer is made to the traveling public to enable the subscriber to pay his debts, and not with any reference to speculation, as all the property is valued at much less than its cost, (the Steamer alone having cost $11,000), and the price for carrying passengers to Astoria being much less than the usual fare

Portland May 21, 1867. d2m J. W. KERN.

Notice.

OWING TO THE STEAMER U. S. GRANT having lost several regular trips, she will continue to run for a few weeks, to give all ticket holders an opportunity to travel The tickets stand good for a passage as long as the boat continues to run. A few more tickets yet to be disposed of.

Johnson's Intimacy with J. Wilkes Booth.

We make the following extract from the testimony taken before the Congressional Impeachment Committee. It is a portion of the deposition of an officer who was formerly an aid on Andrew Johnson's staff, when military Governor of Tennessee; but whose name, for obvious reasons, is withheld.

Q. How long after this occurrence before you were in President Johnson's room? At what time of day and on what errand?

A. I called the next afternoon, I cannot state the hour precisely, to inform President Johnson that Stanton had not complied with his request to appoint me a Captain and Commissary of Subsistence of Volunteers, and also to present to him two sons of Thomas Underwood, of Lafayette, Indiana—one about eight, the other about six years of age.

Q. While you were there were any cards sent up to President Johnson?

A. There was one, and I saw that!

Q. Did President Johnson order the person whose card was sent up to be admitted?

A. He did.

Q. What name was on that card?

A. J. Wilkes Booth.

Q. Was he admitted?

A. He was.

Q. State as near as you can the particulars of the interview between Booth and President Johnson—whether they met as strangers, or in what other manner?

A. From the familiarity of the greeting, I should judge they had frequently met and were intimate friends. When he came in they shook hands, with the usual salutations of friends.

Q. How long did you stay?

A. Not over five minutes after Booth came in; I left with the two boys, leaving Booth and President Johnson together.

Q. Had you ever seen Booth before?

A. Once upon the stage more frequently at the Kirkwood and Metropolitan hotels; and he had been pointed out to me, though I had never been introduced to him.

Q. Did you see Booth at the Kirkwood House at any time before the assassination, and if so, how long?

A. I saw him, I think, on the 12th of April; he came in, I was sitting there; he inquired at the desk of the office if President Johnson was in; he was told that he was not; he then said he wanted to see him on private business, and went away without further remark.

Q. On the evening of the 4th of March, after the speech of Vice President Johnson in the Senate Chamber, did you call upon him at the Metropolitan? If so, state all the occurrences of that interview, giving all that was said by both of you as exactly as possible.

A. I called there, I think, between five and six, and immediately upon entering the room I said to President Johnson, who was lying upon the bed, "Great God, Governor, you have ruined yourself and the party!" President Johnson raised himself up on his elbow and said: "By God, I will straighten myself out and make myself fair before the end of my administration Blair has been here and invited me to go up to his house, which I intend to do on Monday. Burnside [servant], go down to the bar and get me some whiskey." I then left the room.

TALK WITH JEFF. DAVIS.—A correspondent of the Missouri Democrat has seen and conversed with Jeff. Davis. A portion of the conversation is given below:

My conversation with Davis was unrestricted, and, during the course of it, I had occasion to refer to the sufferings of the prisoners at Andersonville, Belle Isle, Libby Prison, etc., as well as to the exchange of prisoners. Davis said that he was always anxious to be relieved of the prisoners on his hands. He said his ports were blockaded; that he was without supplies or the means of obtaining them, even for his own soldiers; and, finding himself in that strait, he proposed to deliver, with or without exchange, all the sick, wounded or disabled soldiers held by him. I remarked to Davis, "Why was not an exchange effected?" He stated, "there was one man in your country who prevented it." I replied "Do you refer to Stanton?" He said, "I do not; it was ——." I asked him to allow me to make use of the name and circumstances connected with it. But he said "Occupying the position that I do, it would be improper."

Next, I commenced talking with him about an Alderman from Tennessee, now loafing in Washington. I seldom so far forget myself as to talk about men who have filled "all the positions up," but couldn't restrain from telling Davis that the controlling party in the North regarded Johnson as the worst enemy of the South, and that he was the stumbling block in the way of reconstruction. Davis was quite frank in talking with me on this subject. I may be overstepping the bounds of my interview when I give publicity to only one of a number of significant remarks that he made, but Davis said to me that he "believed he (Johnson) was doing what he thought best for the South, but it had resulted badly." There was much that was mentioned in this connection which I am not at liberty to make use of at present although, by way of parenthesis, I will state that no attempt was ever given to any expression of regret on the part of the United States officials. Differing as widely as the poles with Davis, I did not hear him utter an unkind word against any one, especially Johnson, and must admit that I was more charmed with his conversation than that of any prominent man with whom it has been my fortune to meet. He expresses himself for peace, and I believe him to-day, great a rebel as he was, less a traitor and a more honest man than Andrew Johnson, who has made treason so "odorous."

All past history feits to show such a plethora of money as now exists in nearly all parts of the world. The Bank of England rates have been reduced to two per cent—a lower rate than it has reached since 1862, and the third time it has ever touched so low a point since its existence. That Bank contains in its vaults one hundred and fourteen millions of dollars. The Bank of France keeps locked up, at the present time, one hundred and seventy eight millions. The Bank of Westminster contains fifty millions. The United States Treasury holds one hundred and forty millions in gold, making a grand total of four hundred and seventy millions of dollars of idle capital. In the meantime, the mines of the world keep adding enormously to the amount already on hand. The argentine flow toward India seems to have met a considerable check, as may be gathered from the fact that the British shipments of silver to that country have decreased from $75,000,000 in 1859 to $11,000,000 in 1866. This decrease has been regular, and for six months of the present year has only amounted to $2,186,830.—S. F. Commercial Herald

FEMALE SUFFRAGE.—The St Louis Democrat thinks the readiest means of settling the question of female suffrage is to give it a practical test. It says:

In Kansas the two amendments are before the people, and may both be adopted at once The experiment can be tried in that State as fairly and safely as in any other, and, if it succeeds, within a very short time the people of other States will be prepared to adopt female suffrage. The only serious objection to its adoption is based on the assumed fact that woman generally will not exercise the right if it is given to them. To that objection a practical experiment, if successful, will give the most convincing and satisfactory reply, in such a case, one fact is worth a bushel of syllogisms If the women of Kansas, having been enfranchised, do vote—the higher classes as well as the lower, the intelligent as well as the ignorant, the virtuous as well as the vicious—then it will be a reasonable presumption that the women of Missouri will also vote

GEN SHERMAN.—The following is the latest Sherman story "Sherman, on his march toward Atlanta, constantly astonished the rebels with the facility with which he restored the railroad bridges they destroyed at his approach. They would annihilate a bridge just before he arrived, and the next morning there it was again just as it was before they touched it. At last a light dawned upon them. The original plans for the bridges had all been furnished from Cleveland, Ohio, and before Sherman started he took those plans, had each bridge duplicated in all its timbers and iron work, took the pieces in a "shook" state on his trains, and &c, when he found a bridge gone, he had nothing to do but get its mate out of the freight car, bolt it together and put it up all right. This thing worried the rebels a good deal when they found it out. One day they proposed to destroy Dalton Tunnel, to hinder Sherman's march, but an exasperated rebel said: "What in the nation's the use? That d—d Sherman has probably brought another along with him from Cleveland!"

Gail Hamilton, in her new book entitled "Wool Gathering," remarks that "A single fact will show how rapidly the course of empire has taken its westward way. Only in 1840 there was but a single school in Milwaukee, with twenty-five scholars; now there three hundred lager beer shops!"

Mr. Stanton and the President's Cabinet Meeting.

The following history of the last cabinet meeting, which was called to consider reconstruction, is given by the Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette:

At this second consultation, there were present Messrs. Seward, Stanton, W. McCulloch, Stanbery, and, of course, the President. Mr. Randall has not been mentioned in connection with it, and, in fact, of very small consequence to any whether he was or was not present.

Mr. Stanbery came in with the opinion in full, a digest of it, and a series of questions upon several points which it contained, which covered the various members of the cabinet, as they formed Mr. Johnson's select school, and was their weekly examination.

The questions had been prepared with great care, and some of them were very cunningly framed. The object was to get positive answers to them, and then publish the whole world precisely as had been done in the first message. No wonder it took the President twelve days to devise a message which, while seeming to contain nothing, concealed everything.

Mr. Stanton was one of the first to speak. Said he, in substance, that every, you had better have served your opinion each of us. I expected something of this kind last night. I sat down and wrote out my opinion. Here it is. I propose to file it by way of answer and then I shall be ready to answer your questions categorically."

Though somewhat taken aback Mr. Stanbery went on with his catechism the first question was the following

"Do you hold that the President under the constitution, as commander of the army, has power to control the acts of the district commanders?"

With this he went through the entire class, taking care that the Secretary's replies should not come in contact with which the President's views were stated. It was Mr. Welles' turn. Yes; Mr. Welles replied promptly and positively—

There was a pause after the Attorney-General's paper, and then his calm, philosophical [illegible]

The Daily Oregonian.

MONDAY MORNING, SEPT 16, 1867.

Then and Now

For thirty or forty years after the Democratic party came into power, it was the advocate of impartial suffrage During this period it did not except negroes from the number of those who were admitted to the ballot box. The State of Virginia where those men flourished who originated the Democratic party, and where that party has always had undisputed away, allowed negroes to vote until about the year 1835. In Tennessee and North Carolina they also voted down to an equally recent period In but one of the thirteen original States were they excluded from the ballot box in early times Negroes have voted in New York for many years, and for that right they are indebted to Van Buren, once a Democratic President of the United States. The policy of the Democratic party in relation to this subject for many years after it got possession of the Government, was therefore directly the opposite of the policy it now advocates. Were its founders "mongrels?" Its present supporters virtually say they were

Congress has enacted impartial suffrage in the rebel States. This act was rendered necessary to provide some means whereby the Unionists, white and black, could protect themselves; for military rule cannot be continued forever Emancipation was rendered imperative by the force of circumstances; not less imperative, in view of the peculiar condition of affairs, was the enfranchisement of the blacks at the South. And if negroes are hereafter to vote in Virginia and North Carolina, it is nothing more than they did for fully thirty years after the Democratic party had obtained the ascendency in all departments of the Government

There are those who profess themselves afraid that Congress will enact the same law for the loyal States which has been enacted for the South. Possibly some may honestly entertain such an apprehension; but most of those who grow so very indignant over it know very well that Congress will do no such thing. Not six members in either House believe that Congress has any power over the subject. Not the least disposition has ever been shown by that body to pass such a law. Of course the quibblers will say that if Congress may enact such a law for the South, it may do the same thing for the North. Now we believe most people are intelligent enough to know that a great many measures have been enacted during the last six or seven years which applied to the rebel and not at all to the loyal States. Most people, too, know that the relations of the rebel and the loyal States with the Government of the Union are of a very different kind,—that in fact the seceded States have had no constitutional relations with the Union since 1861. They have no local governments which have been recognized as loyal, and whatever name they may be called by, they are practically in a territorial condition. The legislation of Congress in regard to them has been enforced ever since 1861, and the act establishing impartial suffrage finds its justification in their condition and in the fact that they are not States in the Union, in the same sense with those which remained loyal. If equal suffrage is enacted in the remainder of the loyal States, each State will act in the matter for itself, as some half dozen of them are now proposing to do. And while there may be a difference of opinion upon the mere policy of giving the blacks the suffrage, there can be no doubt that Democratic party in the early stage of its history raised no objection whatever to the exercise of the right of suffrage by negroes, but on the contrary made itself the champion of that idea.

In an article of California politics published in the Sacramento Union of the 9th inst. the following remarks are made: The Governorship has been given to a Democrat. The gift was meant, not as a compliment to that party, or as those unacquainted with our politics, or purposely intending to misrepresent it, would have the world believe, as an endorsement of the course of the President and a censure upon that of the Congress, but wholly as a reprimand to corrupt politicians and a vindication of the right of the Union people to be heard in the primary elections and State County Conventions which present candidates for their suffrage. We have said repeatedly that, had John Bidwell, the manifest choice of his party for Governor, been nominated, with a full ticket of our best men, he would have been elected by a larger majority than Haight. A careful examination of the returns confirms us in this conviction. The Union nominee for Governor has run almost as far behind his ticket as Haight has run ahead of, him. In addition to this the Union party lost from fifteen to twenty thousand votes by the apathy which a radically defective ticket caused among the people.

It is provided in the bill which passed the last Congress to regulate the tenure of office, that in case the President shall suspend any officer during the recess of Congress, he shall send to the Senate within twenty days after the next assembling of that body, his reasons for such suspension, together with the evidence supporting them. An interesting chapter of history may therefore be expected shortly after the assembling of Congress in November. Johnson will be obliged to give his reasons for removing Secretary Stanton from the War Office. The country knows well enough that he was removed only because he would not assist Johnson in defeating the reconstruction acts, and it will be peculiarly interesting to see this urged by the Executive as the reason for the suspension. Not less interesting will it be to observe what will follow in Congress. Stanton will probably go back to his place, and Johnson may be superseded by some one who will enforce the laws instead of making himself a judge of their constitutionality and trying to defeat them.

The indignity that was shown Rosenheim in not giving him a place on one of the political committees for the organization of the Democratic party in this city was outrageous and shameful. Some of them will doubtless try to justify themselves by saying that they have paid him his price already; but they should reflect that he has not been permitted to enjoy it. It is painful to see them add to their other offences the black sin of ingratitude.

The total registered vote of Yuba county, Californian, (Marysville) exceeded 2,900. The total vote polled was 2,375, showing that twenty per cent. of the entire vote of the county was not polled. It was the same thing in nearly every county in the State. No wonder that at a time of such deep and wide-spread discontent among their opponents, the Democrats got a victory.

Feehheimer has formally gone over to the Democrats, and has got a place on one of their political committees. Until within a few weeks he has claimed to be a Republican, and only a quarter of a year ago he sought a nomination from that party. He probably expects his Democratic friends to give him a paying office. Dow understands such customers as he.

The Sacramento Union of the 9th has returns from forty counties which foot up a plurality for Haight of 8,507.

DEMOCRACY IN TEXAS.—A dispatch from Galveston, Texas, dated August 21st, says that recently, while the freed people of Sterling, Rochester county, were worshipping in their church, they were attacked by four desperadoes, who said "the d——d negroes should not hold church" They drove the colored people away, shooting down in cold blood three of their number, two men and one woman.

The Revolt.

[From the Sacramento Bee.]

The complexion of the returns indicate very clearly that Democrats have been chosen to the State offices, to two of the three Congressional seats, and they will have control of the Legislature in joint convention, thus enabling them to choose a U. S Senator for a full term. What does this prove? Not that it is a Democratic victory, but that it is a public revolt, the causes of which are various, but are mainly traceable to the corruption which has been practiced in the party by two or three men who have attempted to run it for self-aggrandizement and in defiance of the known will of the people. The election was decided by Union voters, by men who had determined to rebuke in a severe and a public manner those who had in fraud and violence controlled primaries, and who by the use of plastic men in conventions, set at nought the fairly expressed will of the people, and by those who forced an official raid upon the public treasury

No man acquainted with the public opinion of this State will undertake to deny that with Bidwell as the nominee for Governor, Nixon or Hale for Secretary of State, Couton or some such person for Controller, and Owen or Smith or Springer for Printer, and the balance of the ticket just as it was, that the State could have been carried by 6,000 to 10,000 majority for the Union party. And yet by reason of bad nominations and bad management it has been lost by the highest of those figures With such a ticket as we have named the present would have been reversed Indeed from the hour in which the ticket was made the best informed men of the party looked upon defeat as inevitable, and so convinced were some of this that they refused to accept nominations upon any ticket so headed

The objectionable names received a large vote, but full seventy five per cent of it was cast for them under protest, and the protestants, it is reasonable to suppose, are not inclined to grumble at the result. From a majority of over 18,000, in 1861, those who undertook to run the Union party for personal ends, and in opposition to the public weal, have, on paper, thrown it into a large minority, and have thus shown their incapacity for the positions they had usurped. But the minority is only on paper. The loyal masses are as true to day to the Union and the party of the Union as they were in 1861, and are as willing to respond when the country needs their services But two or three men are not the party, and never can be. The people of California will not, if they know it, indorse a wrong, whether committed by friend or foe—and they have, by their actions, publicly declared that in politics, as in business, honesty is the best policy

The Union party is stronger to-day in the true affections of the people, under its apparent defeat, than it would be if wrong had been crowned with victory in its camp. Its record is pure and unsullied, and it can rally now beneath a noble and unblushing banner for the triumph that, under wise and patriotic guidance, awaits in the Presidential campaign of 1868. The public now know that it is an honest party—or at least that there are enough upright men in it to swiftly punish those who would attempt to use it for ignoble ends. It will now regain the confidence of the people, which some of the acts of the last Legislature, and the more recent action of the June Convention estranged from it. It has purified itself. It simply revolted against those who sought to lead it into evil paths. We could have wished that the shock had been less extensive, and that none but the guilty ones had been punished; but the sweeping power of the rejection is evidence of the enormity of the offense committed against the party and the people by the usurpers. The election then is not a Democratic victory but a public revolt of the Union party against wrong in its own ranks. It is a victory of the Union party over itself—which, morally speaking, is the most glorious of all victories.

Mrs. Surratt's Case.

It will be remembered that Mr. Johnson has declared over having seen the recommendation of a portion of the military commission who passed sentence upon Mrs. Surratt that her life be spared. The facts as now coming out, indicate either that the most improbable circumstances in the case have occurred, or that Mr. Johnson has been guilty of downright falsehood with the malicious purpose of injuring Mr. Stanton. The Washington correspondent of the New York Times, a journal that has always been friendly to the administration, says

The statements of the Associated Press to the contrary notwithstanding, I am able to reiterate my assertion that President Johnson did know of the recommendation for mercy to Mrs. Surratt previous to her execution. The fact that his order approving the finding of the Military Court which tried the assassins, was written on a sheet of paper which was attached to the sheet on which the recommendation was written, conclusively proves that he could not have written the one without reading the other, if he chose to do so; and it is fair to presume that he did. It is also certain, as stated by Judge Pierrepont in his argument for the prosecution in the Surratt case, that the finding of the court was made a subject of Cabinet discussion, and that every member of the Cabinet voted to approve it, or, in other words, for the execution of the criminals.

"Dixon," the Washington correspondent of the Boston Advertiser, also says:

After the original record of the military commission, which Judge Pierrepont offered to Mr. Merrick, had been withdrawn without any examination in the court room by the agents of the press there, and it was returned to the Bureau of Military Justice where it has hitherto been buried, the President felt free to contradict the story that he saw the recommendation to mercy in Mrs. Surratt's case, and he in person authorized the dispatch of last night. The object of the denial is to give color to the administration charge that Mr. Stanton suppressed it. The original record was in the hands of your correspondent, and the most careful examination justifies the positive statement that the order approving the death sentence, apparently in Mr. Johnson's own hand, and surely signed by him, was on the very next page to the recommendation, the record being a continuation of the same day's proceedings.

PROGRESSING.—The Idaho Statesman is an observor of the signs of the times. It has the following remarks on the present aspect of Oregon Democracy:

The Portland Herald, under the tutelage of Dow of the Umatilla Press and Brick Pomeroy, is advancing to the true standard of domocratic principles. The true democratic doctrine and belief has all along been that the men who fought under the stars and stripes were rebels, and that the secessionists were the true patriots, but few bold enough to say so. Dow has quite a time of it in bringing his party up to his standard, but he is meeting with success. The copperhead convention, held at Umatilla a few weeks ago, was weak-kneed, and Dow walloped them vigorously. They talked about "our Union" and "our arms," just as though the Democratic party had an interest in the country and was a friend of the American Government. They were afraid to come out and endorse the rebellion as well as Johnson's "policy." Dow belabored them vigorously for being "weak in the faith," and for "sacrificing principle for policy" Dow is no time server. He believes the national debt should be repudiated and the confederate debt paid, that Congress and the Union generals should be hung as rebels and Jeff. Davis elected the next President. Talent always wins, and Dow is making himself felt to be a power and an oracle in the Democratic party in Oregon. The Oregon Herald was the organ of the weak-kneed Democracy, but it is at last obliged to yield to the superior force and accept the true doctrine from the Umatilla Press. The Herald now admits that Grant is a traitor and Jeff. Davis a patriot. The rest of the "creed" will be swallowed in due time The Herald has to do this, or become an organ without a party in Oregon Beriah, the mock-mannered and sleek, pins his faith to him of the unkempt hair, and the Oregon Herald becomes a tail piece to the Umatilla Press

SENATOR WILLIAMS AT THE DALLES.—From the Mountaineer of the 14th we get the following

The Hon Geo H Williams, in accordance with previous notice, addressed the citizens of the Dalles and vicinity at Hood's Hall on Tuesday evening, the 10th instant The audience was large and enthusiastic In the first place he explained his action in relation to the Branch Mint question, and we believe, to the satisfaction of every one present. He then discussed the political issues of the day and in such a manner, both logical and argumentative, that the most obtuse individual present could not fail to comprehend him. He spoke for two hours and three quarters and was patiently and earnestly listened to The audience was the best behaved, for so large a number, that it has been our pleasure to have seen at the Dalles. We were much pleased with the speech, and so appeared almost the entire audience Our Honorable Senator has reclaimed many of his old friends, who had been made to believe that he had become an enemy to this section of Oregon in advocating the removal of the Branch Mint from this city to Portland.

TOO CONSTANT.—In New York, recently, a man named Cary shot his wife. She died, refusing to implicate him in the murder.

FROM THE NORTH

SEATTLE, Sept. 11.—Judge Wyche and party arrived yesterday from Walla Walla across the mountains They met the North Pacific rail road survey party twelve miles east of summit The party were over the most difficult parts of survey and will reach Kittatash valley in a few days. The mountain pass for the railroad is favorable. The party working on the wagon road via Snoqualmie pass are now near the summit and will complete the road to the open country early in October

The English Reform Bill.

The following is an epitome of the English Reform Bill lately enacted by Parliament

"It gives a vote to every male householder who personally pays his rates, and it makes any other than personal payment illegal. It enfranchises every male lodger of full age who has occupied one year any portion of house, whose yearly value, unfurnished, is £12. It enfranchises every male householder in counties who pays £12 annually as rent It enfranchises the graduates of London University, and gives that institution one member, it enfranchises the full aged residents of Oxford and Cambridge Universities who will vote in the borough elections in those places It provides for the notification of all whose rates are due that carrying voters to the polls shall not be legal in boroughs, with the exception of five large ones, that members appointed to office need not return to their constituents for re election. The bill protects all existing franchises. The Redistribution part of it disposes of forty five seats, which were obtained by disfranchising four boroughs convicted of gross frauds, and taking one member from all boroughs of less than 10,000 population Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester and Leeds, are each to have three members The boroughs of Hartlepool, Middlesborough, Darlington, Dewsbury, Staleybridge, Wednesbury, Gravesond and Stockton, are to have now, for the first time, one each. Salford and Merthyr Tydwell are to have two instead of one. Several suburbs of London are combined under "Chelsea" and return a member, and a new borough—"Hackney"—is to be separated from the Tower Hamlets. The University of London is to have a member. Twenty five members are distributed among the counties.

CAMP CROOK.—The Mountaineer of Saturday has the following under this head

This is the name of a new Military Camp that has recently been established in the Harney Lake country, on a small creek known as Rattlesnake, located on the northeast side of the valley about twenty miles north of Malheur Lake. It is between fifty and sixty miles from Canyon City in a southeast direction, and on a direct line to the Owhee mines. A good wagon road can be built at a very small cost from Canyon City to Camp Crook and from thence over the Steen mountain and down the tributaries of the Owyhee river to the different mining camps in that section of country. This route will probably bring us one hundred miles nearer to those mines than by the route now traveled by way of Boise City.

The country in the vicinity of Camp Crook, looking south towards the lake, for a distance of twenty miles, is one vast prairie, beautifully covered with grass of various kinds. Directly in the rear and north of the camp, are the Blue mountains. At a distance of probably four miles from the camp, pine timber is in abundance. This is decidedly the best location for a permanent post in the Harney Lake country, both for the protection of the settlers and for eventually exterminating the hostile Snakes.

LIQUID HONEY.—The following recipe, for a beautiful liquid honey, is taken from Mr. Langstroth, who says the best judges pronounce it to be one of the most luscious articles that they ever tasted

Put two pounds of the purest white sugar in as much hot water as will dissolve it, take one pound of strained white clover honey—any honey of good flavor will answer—and add it warm to the syrup, thoroughly stirring together. As refined loaf sugar is a pure and inodorous sweet, one pound of honey will give its flavor to two pounds of sugar, and the compound will be free from that smarting taste that pure honey often has, and will usually agree with those who cannot eat the latter with impunity. Any desired flavor can be added to it.

The Anti Slavery Standard has a Washington letter which says that during the late extra session of Congress, Chief Justice Chase brought his personal influence to bear upon members of both houses, both directly and indirectly, against impeachment.

The Illinois Penitentiary contains 1,017 convicts, but the number is said to be diminishing. About 700 of the convicts earn ten cents a day over the expense of their maintenance.

"FAMILY DYE COLORS."—The most useful and welcome articles found in almost every household in the land, are the FAMILY DYE COLORS of Howe & Stevens They can always be relied upon, are easily used, and cost but a trifle. Sold by Smith & Davis

THE FAVORABLE TIME HAS ARRIVED.—Those new goods have arrived at KOHN & FISHEL'S and are now open to inspection. We can assure the ladies that they can now find on KOHN & FISHEL'S counters, the handsomest, cheapest and most desirable dress goods—from colors to the richest and most costly fabrics—that have been brought to Portland since the war began. NOW IS THE TIME for housewives to buy new supplies of cotton goods; prices are reduced so much as to astonish everybody. In the latest styles of business suits and FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, Kohn & Fishel are now able to eclipse any house in this city, and the goods are of the very best quality and make There never was such a chance in Portland for BARGAINS IN FAVOR OF THE BUYER

Buchtel's Photograph Gallery is the only establishment in Oregon that is thoroughly prepared to do all the different styles of work in the art. CROOKED NAMES—CROOKED LIVES.—A correspondent of the Oregon City Enterprise writes from Monticello W T a letter from which we clip the following extract

The pleasant little country village from which I date my letter is situated on the Cowlitz river about 25 miles from where it empties into the Columbia, on a low flat bottom, between the two rivers It is a pretty place, and has a pretty name and yet I think it must have been named at random for use the name when applied to the place, is certainly a misnomer I am told the word means "little mountain" and this is about the only place I have seen in this part of Washington Territory which is perfectly level I asked a settler why it was so named and he did not really know but "reckoned it was because it had to be named," and I acquiesced in his ratiocination in inwardly resolving that it had escaped the fate of too many places in the Territory that are loaded smothered, choked down and strangled with outlandish, jaw breaking Indian names I do not wonder at the woe begone, haggard look of many of the citizens of this Territory when I remember how they are compelled to twist their faces in pronouncing the names of their homes I mostly believe some of their contortuances have grown into shapes corresponding with the angles and knobs in the geographical nomenclature of the country so that a close observer may generally know where a man lives by the shape of his mouth

This theory of the correspondent undoubtedly has something in it Madame Proprietti, whose schooling her Muses in the secrets of facial expression always taught them to expel six certain pieces of wind to produce certain effects upon the countenance We doubt if a pretty woman ever lived since Eve who did not understand and practice the art The countenance of man is probably not so mutual as to be entirely incapable of receiving varied impressions in the same way those on a nation whose nomenclature has little variety and we will show you a nation of countenances of corresponding uniformity China, Russia, and Norway may be taken as examples The United States has a greater variety of names than any country probably in the world, and a greater variety of faces. It is pre-eminent in extremes The extreme of crookedness in names, seems to have been inflicted upon our neighbors, the clam-eaters It would be a little curious to know the exact effect upon the "human face divine" of a frequent pronunciation of some of their very crookedest, and we hope the Enterprise correspondent will furnish a paper on the subject And to assist him in his researches, we beg to suggest to him the propriety of no inquiry into the origin of the names themselves—whether, for instance, the habitual eating of clams and such, and anything to do with the investin of such words as Sawamish, Snohomish, Skilliquamish, etc.

OREGON CITY ITEMS.—We clip the following items from the Enterprise Mr Wade, of the Land Office in this city, informs us that by the last eastern mail he received 56 Donation Patents, from the General Land Office at Washington City The Imperial mills of this city have been engaged for two weeks past flouring from new wheat The grain brought to the mill thus far is of better quality than usual which is perhaps owing to the fact that we never had finer weather in Oregon for securing the crops ... Secretary and Acting Governor May, Acting Treasurer T. McF Patton, and Col Isaac R Moores, as Commissioners for the sale of Public School lands in this State, paid Oregon City a visit on Tuesday last, and offer all the tracts in Clackamas county for sale. Either the land is so poor nobody would have it—or else people were afraid to bid—for only about $550 worth was disposed of ..... The fruit crop in this county this year is very heavy and unless resort is had to drying and preserving in large quantities, a great deal of it will perish ... At a meeting of the Clackamas Base Ball Club, held at their rooms in this city on Tuesday evening, it was resolved that the First Nine accept the challenge of the Portland Pioneers, to play at the State Fair on Friday, October 11th And also, that the Second Nine challenge the Willamettes, of Salem, to play a match game during the State Fair, any day previous to Friday the 11th

PASSENGERS FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The steamship Oriflamme sailed for San Francisco Saturday evening, with the following list of passengers: Hon S A Field Hon H W Corbett and wife, H O Coulson and wife, S Mitchell, O S Silver, D Wolfe, J Leland, A S Leland, James Smith, B Pragg, J W Johnson, John S Mason, J R Phillips, Rev John Mullin, James A Hunter, Maj T J Eckerson, wife and two children, Thomas Charman, Miss Addie Eckerson, Master T B Eckerson, R Eckerson, Robert Henson, A W Dinsdale, O H Gilman, Master W H Gilman, O Victor and wife, A J Bonner, H A Sanford, ——Swinbacher, Miss Mary Caffrey, wife and four children, D Metzger, Mad O Felice, Mrs Jas Vance and child, J Kraemer, W H Foye and wife, Rev O L Fisher and wife, Miss Mollie Fisher, Miss Eddie Fisher, F W Kraemer, W T Shanahan, D C Lewis, Rev Benj Todd, Chas Jordon, P Howell, Rev O Derrick, Bishop H H Kavanaugh, Mrs Shaw and daughter, Miss Maggie Shaw, Mrs S C Hale and child, Mrs Susan Clinton, J Failing and wife, A Heller, wife and four children, Miss Sarah Richner and son, Wm Richner, Mrs Kelly and child, Mrs Annie Hearn and child, H H Wood, S G Thompson, E A Hopkins and wife, G D Ager, D C Maher, Mrs Smith and two children, Rev R W Stearns, Col West (W, F & Co's messenger), and fifty in the steerage.

ORGANIZATION OF THE DEMOCRACY.—On Saturday evening, in pursuance of previous arrangements, a meeting of Democrats took place at the old theater, with a view to organizing a Democratic club J A Chapman acted as Chairman and S Norris as Secretary. L. Stout, from the committee appointed a week ago to draft a plan of organization, reported, recommending the election of a President, one Vice President for each ward, a Secretary and a Treasurer; also, that the President appoint an Executive Committee and a Finance Committee, such to have the powers and duties usually assigned to such committees As stated times of meeting were agreed upon, meetings for the present to occur at the call of the President The plan proposed by the committee was agreed upon and then officers were elected, as follows. J A Chapman, President; L. B Hallock, C. S. Bechtheimer and A. P. Dennison, Vice Presidents, Hamilton Boyd, Secretary. H. F. Bloch, Treasurer.

WARD MARTIN.—This famous ventriloquist who has long occupied a prominent place among the actors of this coast, opened in good style at Ore Fino Hall, on Saturday to a large audience, playing his old tricks more neatly than ever, and many new ones, with great success Mr. Martin has made very considerable improvement in ventriloquism since he last visited Oregon, and he now renders this part of his performance exceedingly amusing. The eccentricities of his family of automatons were received with great merriment and applause There will be another show this evening with change of programme. The lovers of legerdemain and fun should attend, by all means.

DISTINGUISHED DEPARTURES.—Why not "distinguished departures" as well as "distinguished arrivals?" Among the passengers by the out-going steamer Saturday evening, were quite an unusual number of persons more or less entitled to the appellative, "distinguished." There were Judge Field, Associate Judge of the U S Supreme Court; H. W. Corbett, U. S. Senator, and wife; Major T J Eckerson U S A, a soldier for thirty years, accompanied by his family, Rev. F S Caffrey and family, Bishop Kavanagh, J. Failing and wife; Rev Benj Todd, Mrs. Ada Hoyt Foye; Rev O L Fisher and family and a number of other Reverends and notables. Several of the first mentioned are en route to the Eastern States

PROBABLY A SELL.—The Herald of yesterday had an account of a reported sensation at Astoria on the occasion of the departure of the Oriflamme the trip before the last. It relates in substance that in obedience to an order from the custom officers the guns of the cutter Lincoln were shotted to stop the Oriflamme in case she should attempt to go to sea on Sunday without a clear ance It makes a very fair sensation item but the Local of the Herald has probably been unduly sold It would be remarkable that a proceeding of the kind, so public as to call down upon the Astoria docks (so the story goes,) a crowd of people, should only be heard of here, after the lapse of over twenty days

STREET WORK.—In pursuance of late action of the City Council, repairs are to be made to the roadways cross and sidewalks of the following streets Front, from Pine to Harrison; D, from North Front to Fifth, Washington, from Front to East Park Madison, from Front to Sixth Notice is also given of the proposed improvement of B, from Fifth to block 105, Couch's Addition, by grading and constructing curbs and sidewalks and a plank roadway eight feet wide These works, when begun, in addition to those already under way will give employment to a large number of men, and convert the streets, for a brief time, to an appearance of liveliness

MUSICAL AND EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTE.—Prof H G Grub announces, this morning, a change in the location of the Musical and Educational Institute, to very commodious and pleasant rooms on Third street between B and C. In consequence of this change there will be no classes to-day From what we learn from patrons and others, this school is now on such a basis as to offer very superior facilities to students in music, and the branches usually pursued at first class boarding school

FREIGHT FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The Oriflamme, Saturday evening, took the following freight 2166 sacks flour, 125 half barrels dried apples 131 cases lucna, 117 gun nine bacon, 113 half barrels butter, 41 kegs lard, 57 hides, 27 rolls leather 301 boxes apples 81 sks quartz 23 sks wheat, 6 sks seed, 31 planes, 4 bales wool 4 packages furs 2 packages skins 15 packages sacks, 72 boxes eggs, 8 cases merchandise, 8 bales merchandise 12 packages merchandise, 3 trunks merchandise, 4 horses

MARRIED AND GONE TO SEA.—Our friend and fellow traveler H C Coulson, who was made the "happiest man alive," on Saturday afternoon departed with his bride per steamer Oriflamme Saturday evening intending to spend a portion of the honeymoon in California We invoke for the pair fair and gentle winds

RECORDER'S COURT.—On Saturday John Brown who was in custody on a charge of stealing a pistol, was discharged, the prosecuting witness failing to appear

John Rauch charge with stealing money from the till of Jack Allphin's saloon was tried and found guilty and will appear for sentence this morning

ARE WE TO HAVE AN EVENING PAPER?—During last week, we heard it said that an evening daily paper would soon be started in this city but under what auspices was not stated The Enterprise of Saturday mentions the matter and ascribes the project to Mr W A Daly late of the Herald

FURNITURE.—Emil Lowenstein & Co advertise to-day their splendid stock of furniture carpeting upholstery, etc. An inspection of their saleerooms and an examination of their prices will convince buyers that no more desirable articles nor better bargains can be obtained here or elsewhere

A MISTAKE.—Capt Kellogg calls our attention to an item of Friday morning, which spoke of navigation above Salem as difficult and uncertain He says the steamers are making regular trips twice a week to Albany and have thus far transported all the down freight offered

SEATS IN THE SYNAGOGUE.—Seats in the Synagogue Beth Israel were sold yesterday afternoon, according to the annual custom

TREASURE SHIPMENT.—The following is a statement of the treasure shipped by Wells Fargo & Co from this city per steamship Oriflamme on Saturday

Wells Fargo & Co	$87 000
Ladd & Tilton	8 000
Goldsmith Bros	5 000
Total	$120 000

BASE BALL.—We notice by the Enterprise that the Clackamas club has accepted the challenge of the Pioneers to play a match at the State Fair The Pioneers have not issued any challenge but merely signified their readiness to accept a challenge from any other club Being thus far, the champion club are ceding to the courtesy of the game they receive, but do not issue, challenges

PROF ALLEN'S LECTURE.—The lecture by Prof Allen, in aid of the family of the late Thos U O Connor, heretofore announced to be delivered at Ore Fino Hall on Tuesday evening, will be delivered at the Willamette Theater Ore Fino Hall was pre engaged by Wizard Martin

WILLAMETTE FREIGHTS.—Arrived per steamer Senator Saturday 7 bales woolen goods, 420 jenks flour, 4 boxes fruit, 6 pkgs patent gates, and 3 cases household goods

LEFT BEHIND.—The City a Snag puller was launched on Friday The bar fleet is now all afloat and they suppose everything is level

Important Notice to Mechanics.—The demand in the city of San Francisco for ship Carpenters Caulkers and Boiler Makers, is unusually great at the present moment Competent mechanics will find immediate employment by the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, the Oregon California and Mexican Steamship Company, the California Steam Navigation Company, and the various Ferry Companies

All the above mentioned companies are making improvements of such magnitude that all ship men need not be idle a single day The present demand for workmen must continue for years to come, as the amount of work actually now contracted for and in course of fabrication will furnish employment for every mechanic on the Pacific coast

Wages, $5 50 per day, in gold

Capable men who are now seeking employment in Oregon and the interior towns of California can obtain regular work here at the price above given, by asking for it

Let them come as soon as they choose They are needed in San Francisco

The wages of men employed about steamers and ships are always of the highest grade, and men who can do such work have never been known to lack employment

In all cases where men do overwork, the extra hours are at double pay

In no place in there so much overwork and nightwork done as in San Francisco as haste and despatch are the watchwords here, and the companies are ready to pay for such extra work.

San Francisco, August 24, 1867.

Important Notice to Ship-Carpenters, Caulkers and Boiler-Makers.

Brothers, beware of and do not be deceived by the above lying poster, which is gotten up by parties who a few weeks ago threatened that they would flood the market with mechanics, for the purpose of destroying trade organizations and breaking up the eight hour system.

There is no unusual demand for the above-mentioned class of mechanics. There are, and have been for months, from fifty to one hundred and fifty men idle, who are most anxious to work.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Company, California, Oregon and Mexico Steamship Company, California Steam Navigation Company, and the Ferry Companies, are at the present time building two steamboats; one is nearly done; the other will give work to about twenty five carpenters for three and a half months

There is but comparatively little repairing done, the P. M. S. S. Co.'s ships having been extensively repaired within the last year

On the boats now building $5 per day is being paid, no higher wages being demanded the $5 50 which is offered in the card being paid for old work and on short jobs

Capable men in Oregon and the interior towns of California had better remain there, as there are at all times from one-fourth to one-half more men in the city than can find employment.

The P M S S Co., for the last ten years, have given steady employment to not more than ten Ship-Carpenters; the other two Companies probably as many more; the Ferry Companies not pretending to give steady employment to any number of Carpenters or Caulkers

Extra work does not amount to five days' work per man a year.

In conclusion, fellow-mechanics, we would say to you, an attempt is being made to destroy all Trade Organizations by the capitalists of this city

Beware! Do not be deceived by the representations of parties who are ashamed or afraid to give their names.

By order of the Association

Secretary Journeyman Shipwrights' Association

Jeff. Davis and the Montreal Scotch Woman.

A Montreal correspondent of the Chicago Republican gives a funny account of a recent rencontre between the late chief of the "lost cause" and a Scotch lady of that city, as follows:

Jeff. Davis and his family, with the Howells, now reside in an elegant house on the same street, and the other evening at the Ottawa House, I heard a good story with regard to him. It appears that his next door neighbor is a worthy Canadian merchant, who has a Scotch wife of considerable pluck and spirit, and both take a great deal of pride in a beautiful garden which is attached to their house. Since Jeff. and his family came to reside next door to them, the young members of Jeff's family have partially destroyed this garden, by tearing down beautiful trees, trampling over flower beds, etc., much to the grief and annoyance of all the family. About two weeks ago, however, Mrs. —— took the law into her own hands. The circumstances are as follows: Jefferson Davis, Jr., was seen to climb the fence and get into the garden, and was quietly engaged in picking strawberries and stuffing himself with them, when our Scotch lady immediately proceeded to the garden, picked up a birch wand, and gave young Jeff. a sound thrashing—letting him go with the admonition that the dose would be repeated every time he was found there uninvited. Of course the youth went home bellowing from the application of birch to his hips, and the whole family of the President was up in arms, and an immediate demand was made by the female portion of the family that Jeff Davis himself proceed to the neighbor's house and demand satisfaction. He accordingly proceeded, rung the door-bell, which was opened by the lady herself, after which the following colloquy took place:

Jeff. Davis—"I desire to see the lady of the house."

Scotch Lady—"I'm the leddy o' the house. What may I ca' you, if you'll excuse me for speerin?"

Jeff. Davis—(Hesitatingly)—"I am President Davis."

Scotch Lady—"Oon't, so you're Jeff. Davis, are you? You're a neebor o' ours, aren't you?"

Jeff. Davis—"I am."

Scotch Lady—(Rather snappishly)—"And what may be your business wi' me?"

Jeff. Davis—"I came to inform you that one of your servants abused my son Jeff. in a most shameful manner."

Scotch Lady—(Rising to the dignity which attaches to a true woman)—"Dinna deceive yoursel', Mr. Jeff. Davis; it was nane o' my servants that gave the chastisement to the laddie. I did it mysel', and what's mair, if ever I find him in our garden again, I'll gi'e him a double dose."

Jeff. Davis—"This is outrageous conduct to both my family and myself. I will appeal to the law and have you arrested."

Scotch Lady—(Getting her mad up)—"Arrested! Jist try that. I suppose ye think ye're in the Confederacy and still President o' it? You'd put me in prison would ye? Hoo did ye like it yersel'—it's no sae long since ye got out? Weel, you're a pretty man to talk o' arresting onybody—jist after ye escaped the halter wi' the skin o' yer teeth!"

At this juncture Jeff. Davis beat a hasty retreat, leaving our Scotch lady still talking; and when the latter saw he was leaving she slammed the door after him.

Acidity.

Acidity of stomach always arises from that organ not being able to digest, to work up the food eaten, to extract the nutriment which it contains, hence two results: First, the food decays, that is, rots, becomes sour and generates a sour gas, which is belched up, causing a burning or raw sensation, located apparently at the little hollow at the bottom of the neck, or in that vicinity. Sometimes an acid fluid is generated and is belched up, and so very sour occasionally as to take the skin off some parts of the throat, mouth or lips. Second, the food not being properly worked up, does not give out its nourishment, the system is not fed, and consequently becomes weak, the circulation becomes feeble, the feet grow habitually cold; the person is easily chilled, and dreads going out of doors; is happiest when hugging the fire, and takes cold so easily that the expression is frequently used, "the least thing in the world gives me a cold." When such a condition is reached these colds are so frequently repeated that before one is cured another comes, and there is a perpetual cough which the most unintelligent know is the certain harbinger, the forerunner of consumption of the lungs.

When persons are troubled with indigestion, and one of its effects, acidity, the advice given in nearly all cases is to take something to correct the acidity, such as cream of tartar, soda, saleratus, ammonia, the ley of wood ashes, and other alkalies. These things correct the acidity, but the stomach gets no power of a better digestion, the effects as far as sensation is concerned are removed, but the system continues to be improperly nourished; the man grows thinner, and weaker; and with wasting of flesh and strength, there is diminished power of circulation; the person becomes chilly, colds are taken from slight causes and at diminishing intervals, and before he knows it he has an annoying, hacking cough, which too often ends in a wasting, fatal disease.

When acidity follows eating, it is always because there has been an error in the quantity or quality of the food eaten; the stomach could not manage it, could not perform the work imposed upon it. The true remedy is to eat less and less at each meal, until no acidity is perceptible; or to change the quality of food; and in a short time the stomach, not being overtasked, gets time to rest, to recuperate, to get strong; then it digests more food, and digests it better, with the inevitable result of a more vigorous constitution, more power of endurance, more strength of body and greater elasticity of mind, more happiness and a spirit and energy to grapple with life's duties, which makes existence a pleasure.—Hall's Journal of Health.

SUSPENSION BRIDGE OVER EAST RIVER.—The suspension bridge over the East River will probably cost about about $6,000,000. Between five and six years time will be required to do the work. All preliminary arrangements for erecting the bridge are progressing rapidly and favorably. The three routes which have been surveyed by Mr. John A. Roebling, the engineer in-chief, diverge from a single point to the northward of the Fulton Ferry slip, on the Brooklyn side. The main Brooklyn entrance to the bridge will be at the intersection of Sands and Fulton streets. The first and northernmost route terminates at the intersection of the Bowery and Canal street, the second and third southernmost route known especially as the Park line, at the City Hall Park, opposite the Register's office. The last named route will probably be the one adopted. Then the whole length of the bridge, from end to end, will be 5,862 feet. It will run a little obliquely. The grade will be three and a half in one hundred. From the entrance on either side, for a length of 560 feet, the width will be 100 feet. It then contracts to 80 feet. This, of course, will be the width of the bridge proper. The additional width of twenty feet in 560 referred to, will be appropriated for walks to regulate the movements of passengers, moving in opposite directions. The bridge will be divided into two roadways, of fifteen feet in the clear, one for the "going," and the other for the "coming" movements of passengers. These, it must be borne in mind, are only two special divisions of the bridge. There will be two other divisions of thirty feet each in the clear, that will comprise railroad tracks, for the running of passenger cars by wire ropes, propelled by stationary engines located at one end of the bridge. Two trains of passenger cars, capable of transporting 1,000 people each way, simultaneously, will make trips every five minutes. It is calculated that three minutes—running time—will be consumed in making one of these trips. The remaining two minutes will afford time for one set of passengers to get off and another to get on. The fifth division will form a promenade or sixteen feet in width, elevated so that the promenaders can overlook the four divisions of the structure beneath, as well as the river and the adjacent territory. The most conspicuous parts of the bridge will be the two towers, located at a distance of one thousand feet from center to center. The hight of these towers will be one hundred and fifty feet above the roadway, and one hundred and seventeen feet above high tide, clear elevation in the center of the space, one hundred and thirty feet. Both towers will be located inside of the of the pier lines, established by law. The Brooklyn tower will be north of the Fulton Ferry slip, the New York one very near Pier No. 29. Already preparatory work has commenced upon the bridge. On Friday last boring was commenced. By noon on Saturday a depth of twenty-two feet had been reached. In going through this, seventeen feet of cinders were marked. Then something like hard pan was reached. After this, cemented boulders were struck. On this side of the river similar boring will be made at Pier No. 29. To do this work the operators have a six-horse stationary engine with which to work the drill and stand pump, the latter being used to clear out the debris.

RELIGION AND POLITICS IN ST. LOUIS.—A correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial has been overhauling the political record of the churches of St. Louis. He says:

Loyal and disloyal, rebel and Union, Yankee and southern, are the divisions into which the various religious sects, all, or nearly all of them, are separated in St. Louis. In no city of the Union has politics in the pulpit enjoyed so full a sweep and had so fair a test. Her ministers before the war were compelled to assume the northern or southern side. Generally they were nothing loth, and we find them as their early training, instinct, or inclination dictates, urging young men to join the Confederate cause and wear the gray, or to remain loyalists, true to the stars and stripes. Those clergymen who were not thus committed to the one side or the other were hastily dethroned, hooted at and driven out.

Some of the congregations have openly divided, a portion going off to found new churches and the remainder standing by the old house. Other congregations are composed of people who are not on speaking terms, and many have left their churches and sometimes sought in vain to join themselves to more congenial (politically) religious denominations. These remarks apply more particularly to the Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist churches, for the Catholic Church, which is by far the largest and wealthiest, for it holds $20,000,000 worth of city property, had avoided taking sides as much as possible, though the action of the Legislature in enforcing that provision of the new Constitution of the State whereby the Roman Catholic Church was compelled to bear its portion of the county, State and war taxes, must have embittered the Church somewhat against the radicals of the State. Many of the prominent Catholics were also during the war bitter rebels. But in the Presbyterian Church, the battle was waged the hottest, and with such vindictive hatred and partisan zeal as to draw out for the Presbyterian Convention of 1866 large audiences, who were as uproarous, applausive and demonstrative as Democratic Conventions in the olden time.

The declaration and testimony has been the proximate cause of this dissension, although we apprehend the prime question is, who shall control the several millions of church property in the State—the Presbyterians in favor, or those opposed to the declaration and testimony. Both wings of the Presbyterian Church are represented by a weekly newspaper as well as by wealthy churches. The Methodist Church, too, has its Northern and Southern exposure; the Baptist Church has not escaped the contagion; and the Episcopal Church, though perhaps less so than others, is denominated Northern and Southern, as its members are Union people or Southern sympathizers.

PROFESSOR ANTHON AND HIS PUPILS.—The New York correspondent of the Syracuse Journal, in alluding to the recent death of Professor Anthon, says:

In the learned world he will be missed and lamented, but perhaps no man who has for so many years occupied so high a place among scholars, could die and be less regretted, socially, than Dr. Anthon. He was quite as remarkable for his aversion for society as for his scholarship. He never married. Two sisters, also unmarried, kept house for him; but such was the incompatibility of temper between them that the Professor had a separate table set for himself. He hated men and he hated women, but he loved boys—after a pedagogue's fashion. He had a singular way of unbending in the class room. There he was always genial, kindly, and at times even jovial; but out of the class room he was always a bear. He flogged his boys unmercifully, and often unjustly. He was accustomed to stand at the foot of the stairway as the boys filed down to recitation, regarding them with the grim precision of a drill sergeant. Catching the eye of this and the other lad, he would motion him to leave the procession and retire to a secluded room. The victims obeyed with true forebodings of what was coming. In a few minutes the Professor would appear, rattan in hand, and beginning with the nearest boy, would go through the lot, asking no questions till the flogging was over, when he would give the victim a chance to justify himself. Of course he often punished boys without the shadow of a pretext, but then he would say, encouragingly, "Well, never mind; you didn't deserve it this time it is true. Set it down for some time when you do deserve it and escape detection." In this way he did substantial justice to each boy. At one time he had over seven hundred pupils in his school, and it is said that he gave them all several tastes of the rod in the course of the year. Notwithstanding his severity his pupils loved him. He was considered the most thorough trainer of boys that ever taught in this country, and if his pupils got flogging they also got real culture. They appreciate this now that he is gone, and are ready to forget his severity and occasional injustice and to remember only the sincerity, skill and fidelity with which he fulfilled the duties of his profession.

THE GRAVE OF JOSEPHINE.—Rueil, where the unfortunate and divorced queen found her grave, was once the home of Richelieu. The old cardinal had his country seat there, and used to come thither to refresh himself after his toils for France —and himself. The only other thing for which the little town is celebrated is its church, which has a tower built in the twelfth century; the rest of the edifice is of the time of Francis First. In this church, in one of the chapels in the nave, lies buried the Empress Josephine. The tomb is an imposing one, and it is because it is there that the old church has been kept in a constant state of repair by the present emperor. In 1824, ten years after their mother's death, the queen Hortense and the prince Eugene purchased the chapel in the church and erected the tomb there. The remains were conveyed there not long after. The monument is in white veined marble, and under an arch the empress is represented kneeling, with her face upturned in prayer. Strange enough, however, she is in court costume. The face, according to the testimony of those who knew the empress, is a faithful likeness. The monument bears this single inscription: "To Josephine—Eugene and Hortense, 1825." The tomb of the queen Hortense, mother of the present emperor, is in the same church, but one descends into a vault to see it. The tomb of Josephine is dull and gloomy in the dark shadows of the nave, and it is a pity that she could not have rested beneath the roses at Malmaison, which she loved so well.

A NOVEL MORTGAGE.—There is a novelty in the jurisprudence of Louisiana unknown, we venture to say, to ninety-nine one-hundredths of the legal profession—the tacit mortgage. This legal anomaly Louisiana has inherited from its Spanish antecedents, and is a thing of the common law of that day engrafted into the Louisiana Code, which we suppose means the Code Napoleon. That code defines tacit mortgages as those "which, although not expressed, are understood from the nature of the thing or from the provisions of the law." Minors and absentees have a tacit mortgage on the estates of guardians and agents for faithful performance of duty; children of a previous marriage have a tacit mortgage on estate of surviving parent; the wife has a tacit mortgage on the property of her husband as security for her right as prescribed by law. Of the number of this funny kind of incumbrances the New Orleans Republican says not even the professional student can give a synopsis, or can fully comprehend them. Professional men decline to venture an opinion upon title to real estate, and cases are frequently arising in which a tacit mortgage, that had escaped the closest scrutiny, sweeps off the property.

Tacit mortgages are the bane of land titles in in Louisiana lands. An attempt is to be made to free that State from this unseen legal incubus.

ORIGIN OF HONEY-DEW.—Formerly it was the opinion of botanists that the sweet coatings of certain leaves of plants was an exudation from the upper surface vessels through the solar or atmospheric influence. Etomologists have discovered the incontrovertible fact that honey-dew is a product of insects, almost too small to be seen by the unassisted eye, called plant lice, belonging to the genus aphis order homoptera. Small ants, like all families of ants, are excessively fond of sweets. They traverse apple trees and other fruit bearers infested by lice, disorimionating instantly the individuals yielding the saccharine fluid. By gently patting them on their backs with their antennae or feelers, the louse forces out the honey-dew through a minute nipple. It is quickly sucked up, and away the gratified ant goes down the limb and finally to his house near the roots to feed its young. Thousands are thus operating in a sunny morning, milking their dairy. Spare the field ants, then, for they prevent the too great multiplication of the aphis, that would otherwise destroy more trees than they do.

"Sir, I'd have you know that I keep one of the best tables in the city, Sir!" exclaimed an indignant landlady to a boarder who had been finding fault with his fare. "That may be true, ma'am," quietly retorted the boarder, "but you put a very little upon it to eat."

Army Supplies.

Office Purchasing and Depot Commissary of Subsistence,
FORT VANCOUVER, W. T., Sept. 5th, 1867.

SEALED PROPOSALS, IN DUPLICATE, ARE INvited at this office until 12 o'clock M. Wednesday, the 18th day of September, 1867, for furnishing the Subsistence Department with the following BEEF CATTLE, at the undermentioned Military Posts, and in quantities as follows, viz:

At CAMP WATSON, Oregon, 38,000 pounds, total net weight.

At CAMP LOGAN, Oregon, 27,000 pounds total net weight.

At CAMP CROOK, (on Rattlesnake Creek, near Camp Wright, Oregon,) 80,000 pounds total net weight.

Said Cattle to be delivered at the Posts named on or before the 20th day of September, 1867, subject to inspection, to be of good and marketable quality for beef (no Stags, Bulls, Milch Cows, or Yearlings will be accepted), and to weigh not less than 600 or more than 800 pounds net each, at the time of delivery, according to the following mode of determining said weight.

If practicable they will be weighed upon scales; from the live weight of a steer thus ascertained his net weight shall be determined by deducting 50 per cent.

If impracticable to weigh upon scales, then one or more average steers will be selected, killed and dressed in the usual manner, (necks to be cut off at the fourth vertebral joint, breasts trimmed down, shanks of fore quarters to be cut off from three to four inches above the knee joint, and of hind quarters from six to eight inches above gambrel or hock joint). The average net weight thereof (necks, shanks and kidney tallow excluded) shall be accepted as the average net weight of the herd.

Proposals may be made for either one of the deliveries, for a part of one, or for all. They must be in duplicate, and express the price in coin per net pound at which the beef will be furnished; they must also have a copy of this advertisement attached, and be accompanied with a guarantee of two responsible parties that should contract be awarded, contractor will give bonds in half the value of the cattle to be furnished by him.

Certified vouchers in duplicate will be given by the A. C. S of the Post where the Cattle are delivered, immediately on the completion of the delivery, which will be paid at this office.

Bidders or their agents must be present at the opening of the proposals. Envelopes to be marked "Proposals for Beef Cattle," and to be addressed to the undersigned, at Fort Vancouver, W. T.

The United States reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Successful parties to pay for this advertisement, pro rata.

"CAPITAL CITY CHRONICLE."

J. H. UPTON & A. NOLTNER, Proprietors.

ON SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1867, A LARGE SIZE WEEKLY PAPER, with the above title, will be issued at SALEM, OREGON.

The CHRONICLE will be devoted to Politics, News, and the development of the varied resources of the State. In politics the CHRONICLE will be unflinchingly Democratic, supporting and advocating all those reforms in National and State policy, so urgently demanded at the present time by every consideration involving the weal of the American people. The necessity for a Democratic organ firmly planted at the Capital, will be at once apparent to every thinking Democrat in the State. Such a one we propose to make the CAPITAL CITY CHRONICLE, and with the State thoroughly Democratic to-day, with all prospective changes in favor of that party, there is no valid reason why the enterprise shall not prove a complete success.

While the CHRONICLE will devote ample space to the discussion of political topics, the News of the day, the Agricultural Mining, Mechanical and Manufacturing interests of the State at large will receive due attention. A twenty-eight column paper, 20x38 inches in size, will furnish ample space and enable us to present in each number an amount of reading matter equal to the importance of the interests involved. We only ask at the hands of the people that legitimate patronage which shall enable us to present a sheet in every way creditable to ourselves and the State—one which none may have the least reason to be ashamed of.

All contracts for advertising and subscription existing with the late Democratic Review will be faithfully executed by the proprietor of the CHRONICLE.

CARD.

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH'S WATER CURE AND Phrenological Institute, 627 Sacramento Street, San Francisco. This is the only Regular Water Cure in San Francisco, where all curable diseases are treated without drugs. Dr. Smith was the first to establish a water cure on this coast, based upon the theory and practice of the New York Hydropathic College.

We have a truly healthful boarding place for men, women and children, and our prices are moderate.

The Phrenological organs plainly indicate the diseases to which any person, male or female, is predisposed.

Put this card in your hat, and when you come to San Francisco, call on Dr. Smith. He will give you consultation and a phrenological examination in regard to health. It will cost you nothing and may save you months and years of ill health and "bad luck."

Dr. Smith gives free lectures to gentlemen every Friday evening, on subjects pertaining to health, at his Phrenological Hall, 627 Sacramento Street.
